

MAKING CHANGE HAPPEN

Need to create a team culture that lets people speak up and hear all voices?

TRY THE CREATING PSYCHOLOGICAL SAFETY session

By taking the time to reset team behaviours, teams can learn to get the most from all voices, delivering greater innovation and team working.

What happens?

Psychological safety creates a culture that allows teams to innovate, come forward with ideas, and to say when they see something not working. The culture gives teams a shared belief that the team is safe for interpersonal risk-taking. In these workshops, we help teams understand what psychological safety is and why it's vital for high performing teams. We help the team see where they are now and where they need to get to, teaching practices that accompany psychological safety.

This workshop helps with:

- Introducing a team-led model of leadership based on the principles of psychological safety
- Teaching teams what psychological safety is and how it can be used to empower teams
- Building psychological safety and skills into teams to allow all voices to be heard.

Led by...

Katharina is a business psychologist and specialises in employee engagement and well-being. She's the Managing Director of Innovationbubble.

Sandie Bakowski, organisational psychologist and founder of Making Change Happen. .

